Dear Georgia

On behalf of the International Union of Speleology and particularly from a personal point of view, I should like to thank you and your staff most sincerely for the wonderful organization during our recent International Congress. In particular, Penelope Mitrogianni, Nancy Karekla and Spyros Lianos were exceptionally helpful and very businesslike but so were the rest of your team. You all entered into a difficult job in a difficult situation with an immense amount of energy and positive attitude. You made my life very much easier than it would otherwise have been.

I know it was a very different Congress to the ones that you generally organize and the clientele were somewhat unusual as well but notwithstanding that, you all got the measure of the problems and reacted to them well.

Georgia, you only lost your temper once or twice! Not bad really and I was convinced that each time, it was absolutely appropriate. I have to say thank goodness for Erasmus!

Please let me know when you are in London – it would be my great pleasure to come and buy you dinner.

With final thanks and very best wishes

Yours sincerely
